~~131 Coy. RCASC, Pte. Frederick W. Chatterley, 131 Coy. RCASC, of 181 Baseline Road, London; and Sgt. William F. Doggett, The Elgin (27 Armored) Regiment, of 23 Kains Street, St. Thomas. Before taking the three-week cook's course the 40 student-chefs had completed the six-week national survival course under the Special Militia Training Program.—(National Defence Photo.)~~
